WHERE WILL THE ROAD LEAD? WALKING WITH TEENS ON THEIR UNIQUE GRIEF JOURNEYS

Where do teenagers fall in the world of grieving individuals? Do they experience grief more like children or adults? Or perhaps they have their own unique grief experiences and needs.

Join us as we explore this significant stage of life that presents a host of both challenges and opportunities when colored by grief. Learn how teens experience grief in unique and sometimes unexpected ways. Equip yourself with information and tools to enable you to act as a companion to teens on their grief journeys, wherever the road may lead.

OBJECTIVES

During this webinar, participants will:

1. Discuss the characteristics of adolescent development.
2. Describe the unique challenges and opportunities present for grieving teens.
3. Explore best practices for companioning teens on their grief journeys.
4. Identify three ways to support a grieving teen.
